	Plenary Session 1: Drops of Change: Innovative Solutions to Water Woes
	Like many fast-growing urban centers, Bengaluru is grappling with an escalating water crisis. Once celebrated as the "City of Lakes," the city's rapid transformation into India's Silicon Valley has come at a significant environmental cost. Groundwater levels have declined sharply, surface water bodies are increasingly polluted, and the demand for water now far exceeds available supply. The loss of green cover and the degradation or disappearance of many lakes have further compounded the problem.

	संयमव जयत
	This session aims to examine the roots of Bengaluru's water challenges and explore strategies for long-term resilience. Discussions will focus on integrating traditional water management practices with modern infrastructure, restoring and protecting existing lakes, and embedding water-sensitive approaches into urban planning. The role of policy reforms, technological innovation, and sustainable financing models will also be addressed as key enablers of change. By fostering collaboration between urban planners, policymakers, water experts, 1130 – 1300 hrs	and local communities, this session seeks to chart a path toward sustainable water management. Emphasis will be placed on the impact of small, innovative interventions in driving broader systemic change — ultimately ensuring a more water-secure future for Bengaluru.
	Setting the theme: * Dr. Ram Prasath Manohar V, IAS, Chairman, BWSSB
	Moderator: Smt. Shabnam Bassi, Deputy Chief Executive Officer & Secretary, GRIHA Council & Director, Sustainable Buildings Division, TERI
	Panellists:

	• Shri. Vishwanath S, Founder & Director, Biome Environmental Solutions Pvt. Ltd.
	• Prof. Praveen C Ramamurthy, Chair, ICWaR & Professor, Department of Materials Engineering IISc

	Shri. Sunil Mysore, CEO Hinren Engineering Pvt Ltd.
	• *Shri. Rajiv K V, Chief Engineer (Projects), Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage (BWSSB)
1300 – 1400 hrs	Lunch Break
	Plenary Session 2: Waste Not, Want Not: Path to Sustainable Waste Management Like many major Indian cities, Bengaluru faces a mounting waste management crisis. The city's daily waste generation has surged manifolds, yet the infrastructure to manage this volume remains insufficient. A significant portion of the waste ends up in landfills, some of which have been linked to environmental violations and public health concerns. Efforts to segregate waste at the source have been largely ineffective, with inadequate collection systems in many parts of the city. Construction and demolition (C&D) waste adds to the problem, as designated collection sites are underutilized, and processing plants struggle due to inconsistent supply.
	This session aims to delve into Bengaluru's waste management challenges, exploring root causes and identifying innovative solutions. Discussions will focus on the importance of decentralized waste processing, enhancing recycling initiatives, 1400-1530 hrs	and the role of policy reforms in promoting sustainable practices. Community engagement and awareness will also be highlighted as crucial components in addressing the city's waste woes. By fostering collaboration among policymakers, urban planners, environmental experts, and citizens, this session seeks to pave the way for a cleaner, more sustainable Bengaluru. The goal is to transform the city's waste management landscape, ensuring a healthier environment for current and future generations.
