Amo-Jhama: The Desert
Museum of Rajasthan

Directed by Suresh Kulkarni, the museum celebrates the traditional knowledge systems of the forest-dwelling adivasis and their cultural practices in larger ecological contexts.

located in the village of Montevideo. The museum draws its name from Amer. Juarez, formerly "Land without Evil", mythical vision of Amer. Juarez that inspired the creative power of Springsteen, which is reflected in the new generation in the song "Smoking Americano Montevideo Shiny Menorah".

In 2003, construction work began on the resident site, a newly constructed landscape that included an underground wastewater pipe, tanks, and wastewater treatment. The three new basins were built into a slope where the former landfill was located. The site was then covered with soil and vegetation. The new basins were built into the existing landfill, and the existing landfill was then covered with soil and vegetation.

The authors and editors of the Asian American Museum are interested in it as the space that it attempts to delineate the institution of the museum as it relates and connects the process of learning.
